ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method and apparatus for performing progressive order conversion is described. In one embodiment, a system comprises a memory and a progressive order conversion parser. The memory stores a compressed image as a codestream in a first progression order and the progression order conversion parser converts the codestream from the first progression order to a second progression order different than the first progression order.